

Tea Leaf Green

Josh Clark – Guitar, Vocals

Trevor Garrod – Keyboards, Vocals

Reed Mathis – Bass, Vocals

Scott Rager – Drums, Percussion

Tea Leaf Green's "Seeds" captures the early essence of one of the most prolific rock bands today. This three disc collection, made with eco-friendly materials, consists of the band's first three self-released studio albums (Tea Leaf Green, Midnight on the Reservoir, and Living In Between), available everywhere from Surfdog Records on Earth Day, April 22, 2008.

Tea Leaf Green exploded out of a revitalized San Francisco music scene after winning the "Song of the Year" Jammy award for their last studio release Taught to be Proud. Thanks to their loyal, rabid, and growing fan base, the road warriors consistently fill venues across this wide country and have been enthusiastically received on the festival circuit with stand-out performances at Bonnaroo, Wakarusa, moe.down, High Sierra, and Jam in the Dam. The band's chops earned the respect of their musical contemporaries and they have been found sharing the stage with The Dave Matthews Band, Trey Anastasio, Gov't Mule, Bruce Hornsby, John Popper, Bob Weir, and Sean Lennon among others.

For those new to Tea Leaf Green, "Seeds" will serve as the perfect introduction to a group capable of producing timeless songs like "California," "Moonshine," and "Kali-Yuga." Longtime fans will appreciate the band's rooted mystery throughout the albums and their mastery of inspired, transcendent improvisation, as evidenced by the live bonus versions of "Earth and Sky" and "Sex in the '70s." Fans new and old are guaranteed mind bending, soul searching renditions of the TLG songbook on their current U.S. tour charging ahead like a train bound for glory.
